The weather was very cold yesterday, bu was sunny and favorable for business, but business appeared to be as coy as a maidenit was hard to catch. The day was the dull-est for a week. In feed nothing was reported. A boat arrived at noon; less than 100 sacks of corn was all the feed it had. This looks as if the agricultural people about Memphis have learned the wisdom of growing their own supplies. There were a good many potato sales, and the bulk of them were at $2 and under-down to $1.87% Eggs were better; there were fewer offerings, and the cold favored their preservation. The st. rip, will be here in season to leave on time for New Orleans to-morrow evening. She is one of the regular line of Memphis and New Orleans packets, and must have all she wants from our people. Mr. W. N. Calmes, a clever gentleman, handles her quills. Captain Carter (Commodore Rollingpin) river editor of the St. Louis Times Journal, paid us a visit yesterday. He is on a lecturing tour down the river. When we saw him he had not made in the local restriction. he had not made up his mind as to whether he would lecture in this city or not. We hope our citizens will not be deprived of the opporunity of listening to the commodore, who stands at the head of the list of humorous writers and speakers of the country. Captain Eugene Moore, who has presided ver this column since the cessation of yelow-fever host lities, adding many friends to the APPEAL's already long list of marine well-wishers, has resigned, and will seek new pastures for the employment of his talents. le is our friend-he's everybody's friend-and we speak the sentiment of all who know nim in hoping toat fortune may smile upon nim wherever he may draw his sabre. Genial wial and bonorable, he is sure to win friends wherever he makes acquaintances.

Captain Samuel C. Martin, of New York, has invented an apparatus for steering steam vessels by the use of a simple lever. A boy may handle the largest ship with the ut-most ease. Captain Martin places a steam cylinder with pistons on each side of the vessupplied through a valve in the pipe con-necting the two cylinders. The valve is run through the cylinders, and the chains leading to the pistons. Cincinnati Enquirer: Captain A. Donnally bas closed a contract with Mack & Perry to build a first-class sternwheel steamboat, to be completed June 15th. The dimensions of the new boar will be as follows: Length, 210 feet; beam, 33 feet; floor, 34 feet; depth of hold, 5½ feet. Her engines will be out of the Mary Miller. The cylinders are 16½ toches in diameter, and 4½ feet stroke. Such will have three new boilers, 28 feet long 38 inches in diameter—two flues each. Captain Dan Martin will superintend the construction of the new boat.

And upon this foundation was the startling story fabricated. We are the friend of all the mariners, and will contribute whatever is in our power to-ward the advancement of the interests of every steamer and packet line that touches at this port; but if we show any preference, it will always be found in favor of our home enterprises. We invented the above sentiment cial interests of Memphis, not even abating one particle after she had been converted into the grand Taxing-District of the State of Tennessee. He has secured the mail contracts between this city and Vicksburg, and has placed two elegant packets in the line for the accommodation of both the commercial and traveling public, and we are assured is ready to increase the number and capacity of the packets as the patronage of his line may demand. His experience in ever matters is assurance that what he does is the best that can be done, and he will always try to merit the support of this comreial community. In renewing our acquaintance with the ma rine historians, we have a word to say to our

Will S. Hays, of the Lousville Courier-Journal, pays the following merited tribute to the brave Underwood, of the unfortunate steamer Donnally: "The heroic conduct of Pilot Wm. C. Underwood, of the ill-fated teamer A. C. Donnally, standing at his post until he beached the burning boat, saving every life on board, is deserving of the highest praise, and the marine interests should see to it that a substantial token of appreciation is made to Mr. Underwood; is made to Mr. Underwood:

Bill Underwood, the pilot?
Say, stranger, Bill is game,
He aint the man to say much,
But he's got an honored name.
He was pilot on the Donnally
When she burnt the other night,
An' he kept his post o' duty
Wh le thar was a life in sight.
Thar was men excited—crazy:
Thar was husbands huntin' wives,
While the bonnally, sie was burnin'
Bill was thar to save harr liv s.
So he turned her 'cross the river,
Att after in the stream,
An' the ligheers we e busy
Crowdin' on a head of steam,
An' them ingires kept agoin' An' them ingires kept agoin'
Til the bow ran out on shore,
An' it saved the people on her,
Though it cip led three or four.
When the fire licked the chimneys, When the fire licked the chimneys, an' the hungry tongues did steal Al' around the texas burning. That stood Bill at the wheel, An' he never leit it either Till he rang the signal-bell That the Lonnally now was landed, an' the fire hot as hell. Then, you bet he took it coolly. For he thought of home and wife, So he jumped into the river, an' he came out with his life. Talk about your brave men, mister, all that's game in man, or good, You can find it in a pilot, If he's like Bill Underwood, If it hadn't been for Billy Bein' up that at the wheel, Thar's no knowin' how the people Might of sorrow he d to feel. For you couldn't tell how many Micht have burned of found a grave
If he'd left her in the river;
But he didn't - Bul was brave An'he hiled the bull as pilot; As his burnin' steamer crossed rom one shore to the other. From one shore to the other.

Not a single soul was lost.
Say, stranger, put his name down.
I want it understood.
That, when you're huttin' brave men,
You find Bill Underwood.
